PARTICIPATING REGIONS

Considered to be the last frontier market in Southeast Asia, investors are drawn by the potential size of its internal market, abundant natural resources, land fertility and strategic geographical location between the world's most populous countries, China and India.

Yangon is the economic centre of the country while Mandalay is still the chief centre of economic and commercial activity in Upper Myanmar. Other important urban centres have sprung up including Mawlamyine in Mon State and Taunggyi, the capital of Shan State, gaining increasing investors' attention as the economy opens further.

Myanmar remains focused on creating the right set of conditions to attract and facilitate foreign investment to spur economic development, and through the Invest Myanmar Summit, we hope to help investors gain a better understanding of the business opportunities these states have to offer, as well as enable businesses from these regions to access the international market.

TARGETED INDUSTRIES

These industries are highlighted based on the impact they are likely to have on job creation and livelihood improvement in Myanmar.

In August, the Ministry of Planning and Finance published the Myanmar Sustainable Development Plan (2018-2030). The MSDP focuses on the creation of quality jobs together with the expansion of the private sector as the engine of environmentally conscious and socially responsible economic growth.

Given the structure of the economy, agriculture and small and medium-enterprises are the priority. The government will facilitate growth in these sectors by improving access to finance and markets, security of land tenure and access to machinery and technologies.

A national innovation policy will support local entrepreneurs and start-ups, enabling a transition toward an inclusive digital economy. In conjunction, the government will promote the role of the manufacturing, industrial and service sectors, with an emphasis on preparing for the coming digital economy.

The forum will be a platform for companies in the targeted industries and interested investors to present and showcase business opportunities.
